

FIELD WILL A BIG DOCUMENT

Enormous Estate Will Eventually Be Divided Between His Grandsons.

PROPERTY IS TO BE HELD IN TRUST

Provides For Increasing The Allowances Of The Sons Of Marshall Field, II., As They Grow Older.

[SPECIAL BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, Jan. 25.—The will of Marshall Field was filed in the office of the Probate court of Cook county at 5:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. In bulk it was a counter-part of the size of the estate it bequeathed, being the most extensive document of the sort that has fallen into the hands of the court.

When the specific gifts and bequests in trust and direct, reaching above $25,000,000, are all made, some to revert at the death of beneficiaries, there remains a vast residuary estate, estimated at from $75,000,000 to $100,000,000, which is inherited by the two sons of the late Marshall Field, Jr. These are Marshall Field III. and Henry Field.

They receive the property in an elaborate trust, in this proportion: Marshall Field, three-fifths; Henry Field, two-fifths. The trustees of this great residuary fund are Chauncey Keep, Arthur B. Jones, and the Merchants' Loan and Trust company. The trust is not in any event to be dissolved until the elder of the two boys, now 12 years of age, is 50 years old.

Provides Income.

Mr. Field, however, provided that the boys shall have gradually growing incomes, and specified, moreover, that when they reach the age of discretion they shall become associated with the trustees and executors, in order that their character may develop through work and responsibility. The will says this provision is made with a view to the true happiness of the boys themselves.

The residuary estate under the trusteeship mentioned will hold in trust the entire business of Marshall Field & Co., to be continued uninterrupted, and without change in the policy developed through a generation by Mr. Field.

Daughter Gets $6,000,000.

Of the family, and individual bequests—not considering the two grandsons—the largest is to Mr. Field's only daughter, Ethel Field Beatty, wife of an English captain. She is given in trust three bequests of one, two and three million dollars, making a total of $6,000,000.

One of these millions Mrs. Beatty is privileged to leave to her son by her first husband, Arthur Tree of Chicago. The other five millions she also may leave to her present husband or any children she may have by him. Should these possible heirs die without issue the great fund reverts to the residuary estate, the million dollars specifically to the heirs of Marshall Field, Jr.

Provisions for the Widow.

Aside from the ante-nuptial gift made by Mr. Field to Mrs. Caton last August in Europe, commonly supposed to have been several millions and stated by some persons to have been as much as $15,000,000, the widow is given $1,000,000 and a life interest in the residence property. It is understood that the ante-nuptial contract was made with a view to eliminating the widow's choice of dower rights.

To his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Albertina Huck Field, Mr. Field left a life interest in $1,000,000. Besides the will guarantees that the estate of her husband shall yield her $500,000 outright. The little granddaughter, Gwendolyn, herself receives a million dollars in trust and a specific share in $5,000,000, which originally was willed to her rather, now dead.

It is made clear, relating to Gwendolyn and the residuary estate, that should both of her brothers die without heirs she is not to receive the whole of the enormous fund, but only a quarter of it. The other three-quarters, in that possible event, would go to the heirs of Mr. Field's brothers and sisters.

Stanley Field's Share Small.

One surprising feature of the will was the unexpectedly small amount—$100,000—bequeathed to Stanley Field, Mr. Field's nephew, who is one of the managers of his business. The general understanding among Stanley Field's friends was he would inherit a share amounting to several millions. He is the son of Mr. Field's older brother, J. N. Field, of Manchester, England, and was brought here several years ago to learn the business. It is understood Mr. Field grew to put much faith in him as a business aid after Marshall Field Jr.'s poor health debarrd him from taking an active hand in the stores.

Mrs. Dibblee Receives $750,000.

Under the will, however, the largest gift to any of the collateral heirs made to Mrs. Henry Dibblee, a sister of Mr. Field. In two different sections of the will Mrs. Dibblee receives a total of $750,000. Her daughters, Mrs. John C. King and Mrs. A. A. Sprague II., receives $100,000 each. The two daughters of Mr. Field's dead brother, Mrs. Preston Gibson of Chicago and Mrs. Thomas Lindsay of Boston, receive $100,000 each. A sister of Mr. Field, who lives in Williamsburg, Mass., Mrs. Helen James, receives $500,000, two of her sons $250,000 each, one of her sons $50,000, and her daughter, Grace James Gillette, $100,000.

Other gifts are made to the members of the family of Mr. Field's brother, Joseph N. Field, who resides in Manchester, England. Aside from Stanley Field, Joseph Field's younger son, and three daughters, all residents of England, receive $10,000 each.

Among other relatives to whom bequests are made in the will is Miss Nora Scott, a sister to Mr. Field's first wife, who is given $200,000 for distribution among kinsfolk in such sums as Miss Scott's discretion may dictate. Another sister-in-law, Mrs. Sophia Scott Earhart of Denver, receives in trust $25,000. Numerous cousins, children of cousins, and old-time friends are remembered in amounts ranging from $20,000 down to $5,000.

Fund for Old Employees.

A fund for old employees of the house of Marshall Field & Co. is created with a gift of $100,000. R. M. Fair, J. G. Sheed and H. G. Selfridge are the trustees of this fund. Moreover, there are several individual gifts to persons connected with the business—$100,000 to Arthur B. Jones, his private secretary; $50,000 to James Simpson, one of the store managers; and a number of others.

Philip H. Sheridan, son of the late Gen. Sheridan, who was an old friend of Mr. Field's, receives $10,000; and F. J. V. Skiff, in whose direction of the Field museum the merchant had great faith, will have $50,000.

Three Chicago charities—the Chicago orphan asylum, St. Luke's hospital, and the Presbyterian hospital—receive bequests of $25,000 each.

Among those who will be present at the musicale will be Miss Alice Roosevelt, Congressman Nicholas Longworth and his mother, Secretary and Mrs. Taft, Mrs. L. Z. Elster and nearly all the members of the diplomatic corps. Supper will be served by New York caterers and the floral decorations have been brought from the south. The hall in which the entertainment will be given has been transformed into a tropical forest by giant palms and flowering tropical plants.

AWFUL STORM RAGES OUT IN MONTANA NOW

Communication is Cut Off—Trains Stalled in Drifts and Stock Perishing.

[SPECIAL BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Helena, Mont., Jan. 25.—One of the worst snow storms experienced here in years is raging and trains are all late. The Great Northern railroad has a train stalled at Green River and although snow plows have been sent to their relief they have been as yet unable to reach them. Lines to St. Paul are all down and communications are maintained only through the Western Union wires to Cheyenne. Weather is very cold and high winds prevail. It is predicted that the death rate will be large. The stock is perishing and cannot be attended to on account of the danger of leaving the confines of the ranches.

ONE FARM IS SOLD BY THREE SHERIFFS

Property Situated in Three States and Three Deeds Will Be Necessary to Hold Title.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Newark, Del., Jan. 25.—Sheriff Gillis, of New Castle county, Delaware, will, this afternoon publicly sell the farm of a bankrupt farmer, named John T. Johnson, near this town. The sale is attracting considerable interest owing to the peculiar circumstances and conditions surrounding the sale. The farm is located at a point where the states of Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware meet and parts of the property are situated on each one of the three states. Ordinarily a sale of this character would present rather a difficult problem and it would be almost impossible for the purchaser to obtain a clear title. Sheriff Gillis, however, has solved the difficulty by making arrangements with Sheriff Biddle, of Cecil county, Maryland, and Sheriff Griswold, of Chester county, Pa., to be on the spot at the time of the sale this afternoon and to sell the parts of the farm, located in their respective counties, at the same time. It will not be necessary for the bidders to leap from one state into the other to announce their bids, for the three sheriffs can stand within handgrasping distance of each other and still remain within their respective states.

PACKERS' TRIAL IS NEARING ITS CLOSE

It Is Expected That the Jury Will Go Out This Afternoon—A Speedy Verdict.

[SPECIAL BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, Jan. 25.—The reports of the lawyers in the packers' trial is that they are to reach a conclusion this afternoon. A pronouncement is expected and the packers will undoubtedly appeal the case if they are put on trial. The packers base their claim for immunity from prosecution on the fact they were compelled, by Commissioner Garfield, to incriminate themselves. The attorneys on both sides are making a final plea for the packers' conviction or acquittal. Everything is in readiness for the final address to the jury and they should not be out over a few hours at the most. The offer of a settlement was declined by the prosecutors.

BUT FEW SAVED FROM VALENCIA

Reports Today Say That Forty-Five In All Have Been Rescued...The Rest Are Dead.

HEAVY SEAS STOPPED LIFE SAVERS

Reports Of Ocean Going Tugs Say That All Efforts To Reach The Doomed Ship Were Fruitless.

[SPECIAL BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 25.—A representative of the Post-Intelligencer wires from Port Angeles at 3:30 a. m. that the rescue ship The City of Topeka picked up a life raft yesterday afternoon six miles off Cape Beale with twenty survivors of the Valencia on board. The men were in a pitiable condition, almost dead from exposure.

The Awful Wreck.

Earlier reports gave fifteen more men as saved, making the total as forty-five out of a total passenger and crew list of one hundred and fifty-four that were on the ill-fated craft. The Valencia sailed from San Francisco on January 22 and met its fate on Wednesday morning, early rumors of the loss being heard first at noon of that day.

Saw the End.

Passengers on the steamship Queen, which was dispatched to the rescue when the wreck was first learned of, saw the last of those on board go to their deaths.

When the Queen came in sight of the stricken ship it was seen that all the deck was under water except the forecastle. Strong glasses showed that nearly thirty persons had taken refuge in the rigging. The Valencia was on the Point Klaskan rocks.

The storm and heavy sea made rescue from the ocean an impossibility. Each wave that swept over the doomed craft lessened the number of those in the rigging, and when the rain and storm cut them off from sight but half a dozen remained.

Lashed by the Surf.

Two hours later, just after noon, the wrecking tug Salvor reached the bleak scene. Through the surf which dashed fiercely against the rocks could be seen the Valencia, her decks under water, but there were no persons in her tattered rigging. They all had gone into the ocean.

Owing to the cloudiness of the sky and the blinding wind and rain it was impossible to make much out, even with a powerful glass. Occasionally, when the white waves made a suitable background, what was above the water could be made out with comparative clearness. Two masts were quite plainly outlined, and the funnel was still intact.

Being high tide, the deck was almost completely submerged. Everything seemed perfectly bare.

The Valencia was lying stern-to-ward the cliff, with the seas dashing over the boat's side.

The tug Czar, which accompanied the Salvor, reported to Captain Trout of the latter vessel.

"Did you notice any one standing to the rigging?" shouted the captain.

"No," was the reply from the tug's skipper. "But there is something flying from the masts. I can't just make out what it is."

Capt. Trout asked whether it could possibly be one of the passengers who as a last resort might be clinging desperately to the mast in the hope of being picked up.

Those on the tug said such a thing could not be possible.

Attempts to Save Futile.

In the attempt to save any that might be still alive on the Valencia, the steamships Queen and City of Topeka and the seagoing tugs Salvor and Czar were rushed to the scene. It was known that there was little chance of their communicating with the wreck on account of the heavy sea, storm and rain.

Among the passengers on the Valencia bound for Seattle were Prof. and Mrs. F. F. Bunker and two children of San Francisco. Prof. Bunker was recently appointed assistant superintendent of the Seattle schools and was on his way north to enter upon his duties. Prof. Bunker was saved, the others lost.

Miss Van Wyck, another San Francisco passenger, was a sister of Mrs. W. A. Peters, wife of a prominent Seattle attorney. She was going to visit her sister, who is ill at her home in this city.

E. T. Fondo, another Seattle passenger, was a commercial traveler whose home is in this city.

Charles Samuels, a sawcutter, also was a Seattle man. He had been in San Francisco on a pleasure trip.

W. Lombard was returning from a pleasure trip to San Francisco.

Bitter criticisms of the government signal service were heard among shipping men. The government wire from Tatoosh island to the mainland has never been maintained. Had the wire been up tugs could have been instantly dispatched to the scene. Instead, a whole day was lost.

ROCK COUNTY CONTEST IS BOTHERING POLITICIANS

Fisher Or Cunningham Is Now The Question For Davidson To Decide—Many Endorsements.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Jan. 25.—Never in the memory of officials now at the state capitol has there been a contest for appointment to fill a vacancy in a county office so spirited and earnest as that which has developed out of the vacancy in the office of district attorney of Rock county. The first intimation of a vacancy when Sheriff Wallace Cochrane and ex-Sheriff Will Appleby transmitted to Governor Davidson Monday afternoon the resignation of District Attorney W. O. Newhouse, was accompanied with strong recommendations for the appointment of John Cunningham to fill the vacancy. Since then candidates have multiplied and endorsements have filled the mail and piled high the telegram basket on the executive desk.

Governor Davidson says his problem has been made great by the good endorsements of the several candidates, and he is earnestly examining all the letters and reading the telegrams, hoping to be able to select the best man for the place.

From the executive office it is declared that political affiliations or factional record will not figure in the appointment, but there has developed evidence for the belief that some of the candidates and their friends have sought to assure Governor Davidson as directly as possible that upon the appointment depends the success or failure of his plans in Rock county.

The campaign for the appointment is daily increasing in earnestness. Yesterday two delegations waited upon Governor Davidson, urging the appointment of their choices. A party in favor of the appointment of John L. Fisher was received early in the afternoon. Besides Mr. Fisher himself there were in this party H. B. Skavlem, of Janesville, ex-sheriff of Rock county; John Comstock of Janesville, another ex-sheriff; W. A. Mayhew of Clinton, postmaster of that place; and David Conger, a real estate dealer of Janesville. Later in the afternoon ex-Sheriff W. A. Appleby presented a delegation of citizens in favor of the appointment of John Cunningham. The executive office mail was made fat yesterday with letters urging the appointment of various candidates. The campaign is most brisk between Messrs. Cunningham and Fisher. Beloit lawyers have all signed a petition to the governor to appoint John Cunningham of Janesville. The Janesville bar is largely in favor of Cunningham, who has the support of the county, municipal and circuit judges.

54 FIFTY-NINERS ARE STILL HERE

LIST OF RESIDENTS WHO LIVED IN JANESVILLE IN 1859.

OCCUPATIONS HAVE CHANGED

Interesting Information Concerning Janesville's Pioneers Gleaned from Old Directory.

Compared to other cities in this portion of the nation, Janesville is an old city. She was a prosperous and enterprising community of much importance when Wisconsin became a state. Her site was responsible for much of her greatness. She was situated in the center of the fertile Rock river valley, was on the main line of two railroads and had numerous other advantages. But beyond all this, the class of her inhabitants made her what she was, just as those who reside here now maintain for her the precedence which she had then gained.

The greater number of these pioneer business men and workers have passed to the world beyond, but some still remain and are a source of pride, not only to the city but to the state. It would be a difficult matter to take a census of the present residents who were in the city during the fifties, but a partial list has been secured from an old city directory which is owned by the high school museum. This book was published in 1859 and the entire male population, excepting only those not yet in their teens, is recorded. Some of these names were erased from the local census roll by the War of the Rebellion, but the majority has been taken off by removal or death since the great conflict.

Though the reproduction of the complete list would make good reading, the greatest interest naturally attaches to the names of those who are still here. Some of these are in different vocations than they were at that time, some in same, while many have retired from active life and are passing their days in quietude. This list, with the occupation of each, is appended:

Levi K. Alden, carrier Gazette and Times.

William Winkley, Kothman & Winkley, harness-makers.
Joseph H. Wood, clerk.
Josiah T. Wright, dealer leather, etc.

The recitation of many other things of interest that may be found in this directory would fill columns. In the list are found the names of four old residents whose death has recently removed. These are: James Sutherland, who at that time conducted a bookstore; Nelson Cole, carpenter; Moses of L. M. & Co., cabinet-maker; J. H. Balch, who but recently resigned his position as bookkeeper in the Rock County National Bank was a resident here in 1859. He was then conducting a business college here, teaching among other things the famous Spencerian business hand and his advertisements occupy prominent places in the book. Ira Dutton's name appears. It will be remembered that he left the city many years ago and went among the lepers of the Hawaiian islands, where he is still laboring as a missionary of the Christian religion. J. B. Pond was a Janesville resident. He is known the country over as "Main" Pond, the great lecture-platform talent magnate. Frank Gray, who now lives in California, is also recorded as a member of the firm of Bump & Gray, grain and produce merchants.

BIRTHDAY OF THE POET OF HUMANITY

Robert Burns' Anniversary Celebrated by the Rock County Caledonian Society Last Evening.

At Central hall last evening a large audience enjoyed the program and dance given under the auspices of the Rock County Caledonian Society in honor of the birthday anniversary of Robert Burns, the poet. The entertainment opened with a selection by the Lyric Quartette, which was greeted with hearty applause. Miss Amy Woodruff gave a delightful reading and Leonard Mathews rendered a solo in such a pleasing manner that he was obliged to respond to an encore.

The address of the evening was given by Rev. J. W. Laughlin who spoke in a very interesting manner of Burns' place in the hearts of his countrymen and all the English-speaking races. The program was closed with a reading by Miss Woodruff and two selections by the Lyric Quartette. Afterward the hall was cleared for dancing. Kibbey & Hatch's orchestra presided over the festivities until midnight.

Today will be remembered, even if not celebrated, the civilized world over as the natal anniversary of Robert Burns. The great lyric poet of Scotland was born at Alloway, in Ayrshire, Jan. 25, 1759. He died July 21, 1796.

Toten Talk

It was just a week ago this evening that, on returning to his pleasant home after following his usual avocation that day, his wife asked if he intended to witness "Mrs. Temple's Telegram" at the Myers opera house that evening. He hastily replied that he was not. Now, this young man, who, by the way, is employed at one of the North Main street machine shops, is fond of playing cards and passes many evenings with the little paste-boards. Well, to avoid a lengthy explanation and make a long story short, instead of enjoying his usual pastime, he attended the theatre. It was during the progress of the farce that he was surprised to see his better half. "But," it is needless to say, he was dumfounded to see her escort another man. The married man did not enjoy the rest of the "show." Since the little episode occurred, those who have become acquainted with it have been trying to answer the question: Who was in the wrong, or were both?

JANESVILLE MAN GOES TO FRONT

W. D. CANTILLON MADE ASST. GEN. MGR. OF NORTHWESTERN

FROM FREIGHT TO PULLMAN

Rapid Rise of Railroad Man Who Began His Career in This City.

Promotions for three officials of the Chicago and North-Western road well known in Wisconsin, one of them a native of Janesville and another now stationed at Madison, is the result of the creation of a new vice-presidency. William A. Gardner, general manager and formerly superintendent of the Wisconsin division, has been given the new position; W. D. Cantillon, general superintendent of the road and formerly of both Milwaukee and Janesville, has been made assistant general manager, succeeding Richard Ashton, who has been promoted to Mr. Gardner's former position as general manager; and W. E. Morse, division superintendent at Madison, will succeed Mr. Cantillon as general superintendent.

The promotion of Mr. Cantillon is a striking illustration of the power of a man to win his way by ability and without pull or influence. Starting as a boy of 14 years under his father, who was bridge foreman for the company, Mr. Cantillon became a brakeman when 17 years of age, and he has worked up the ladder slowly and steadily, holding every position on the way. Born in Janesville forty-seven years ago, he was in Wisconsin that Mr. Cantillon began his railroad career. He left the common schools to go to work as a common laborer under his father. Three years later he became a brakeman, and at the age of 21 years, he was promoted to the position of conductor, a place which he filled for eight years, running for the greater part of the time between Chicago and Green Bay.

His First Place. His first official position with the company was that of train-master and assistant division superintendent, an appointment which he received in 1889. During the ten years which he remained in this position his headquarters were in Milwaukee, and just before his next promotion he was appointed a fire and police commissioner by Mayor Rose. He was also an active member of the Milwaukee Gun club, his record for marksmanship being an enviable one.

Promoted Step by Step. In 1899 Mr. Cantillon was made superintendent of the Minnesota and Dakota division of the road, with headquarters at Winona, and since that time his advancement has been rapid. March 1, 1902, he was made assistant general superintendent of the road with headquarters at Chicago, he being the first incumbent of a newly created position.

Many Promotions. Three times has the creation of a new office figured in the promotion of Mr. Cantillon, for he became general superintendent five months after given the position of assistant, the office of assistant general manager, to which he has just been appointed, being created at that time. Then, as now, he succeeded Mr. Ashton.

Loyal Service. It is said that the attention of the North-Western company was first called to Mr. Cantillon many years ago by his fearless and loyal service during a serious strike, but that while he was a marked man from that time he was forced to win his promotion step by step. After he rose to official positions he stood just as ready to take an active part in manual labor whenever it was required, and he was frequently seen among his men. He is considered one of the best disciplinarians and most efficient executives in the railroad business.

REVIVAL MEETINGS VERY INTERESTING

Rev. A. M. Ayres Interests His Hearers at His Services at the Methodist Church.

Yesterday afternoon at the Central Methodist church a good audience heard Rev. A. M. Ayres of Oshkosh in one of his Bible studies. He found in the incident of the boy at the foot of the transfiguration hill out of whom the disciples failed to cast the evil spirit the secret of the relative powerlessness of the church. Only "prayer and fasting" will do the thing and modern disciples are not much given to their practice. He told some thrilling incidents which illustrated the power of prayer. At the evening meeting a male quartette added in the song service, consisting of Messrs. Cary, Albrecht, Richards and Kline. The preacher found his text in a vision of Zachariah and showed therefrom how God cleanses, consecrates, commissions and brings men into communion with himself. It was a stirring message. Large numbers remained to the after service. This morning the business men again were at prayers at 8:00 o'clock. The appointments continue through Friday: morning meeting, 8:00 to 9:30; afternoon Bible studies, 3:00; evening, popular gospel meeting at 7:30 o'clock. This evening is the usual prayer meeting night of the four churches, an attendance larger even than the audience which filled the church last evening is expected.

MARRIED SIXTY YEARS

MR. AND MRS. JAMES MCGOWAN OF JOHNSTOWN CENTER

On the twenty-first of January, Mr. and Mrs. James McGowan of Johnstown Center, reached the sixtieth milestone in their journey as husband and wife. They are both climbing up towards ninety, Mr. McGowan being in his eighty-eighth year and Mrs. McGowan in her eighty-seventh. They were born in the same village, Ballyknock, Antrim county, Ireland, and were playmates. Their ancestors were Scotch and English. Mrs. McGowan, whose maiden name was Diana Robinson, was born and bred in the English church and the Rev. Stephen Hunter, rector of the parish at her marriage, which was the first in a church which had just been dedicated. They came to the United States in October, 1850, and after living in New York city and Pittsburg, Pa., for almost two years, they came to Wisconsin and arrived at Johnstown Center July 27, 1852, where they have lived ever since. No one is now left in the village who was there when they came.

They had nine children, four of whom died in childhood, and one, Eliza C., in her twenty-first year. The others are living and are: Henry, who has been for over twenty years actively connected with the business life of Clear Lake, la., Mary, who has laughed for almost twenty years in the schools of Rock county, J. Wallace, who is a Presbyterian minister, Wilmington, church, Chicago, Anna, who has always remained at home. There are but two grand children and are the children of their son Henry. They are James of Chicago, and Mallie, who is now a junior of high rank in her class in the University of Iowa.

At the golden wedding a large company of friends, young as well as old, gathered at their home and made the afternoon and evening events long to be remembered. All the children were present. Many wished them ten more years of life together and now the ten years have come and gone and it seems that they may reach the nineties. Both have their senses and faculties remarkably preserved. In politics Mr. McGowan has always been an enthusiastic republican, having united with it soon after its organization and his first vote was for John C. Fremont. In religion both Mr. and Mrs. McGowan have always had strong convictions and have been very regular and faithful in their church duties. Mr. McGowan has been for years an elder of the Rock Prairie United Presbyterian church, and in over forty years' connection with it has missed only three sacramental days.

LINK AND PIN... News for the Railroad Men.

North-Western Road. I. T. Matthews, clerk at the round house, is off duty today.

Engineer M. A. Crowley was on the switch-engine last night, engineer Schoenberg being on the sick list.

Fireman Ohlin and Ralph returned to Chicago yesterday to attend the firemen's dance there last evening.

Floyd Dunwiddie of the machine shop force is laying off.

Engineer Dunwiddie and froman Pittier took locomotive number 243, which has been in switch-engine service in Beloit to the Chicago shops yesterday. Engineer Walton brought locomotive number 21 from Chicago to take the vacant place.

Engineer Clark is off duty and his place in the freight pool is being filled by engineer Charles Garbutt.

Fireman Charles Welch went to Chicago last evening on a pool freight, relieving fireman Ohlin.

Fireman Yeardon is on switch-engine number 124 days.

General Foreman E. H. Zickler and foreman H. P. Merrill attended the locomotive firemen's ball in Chicago last evening.

M. Ward, foreman of one of the train crews in Rockford, is confined to his home in Rockford by injuries received in a fall Monday morning from the top of a freight car in the west yards. He was fixing a brake when he slipped from the car. His wrist was dislocated and he received internal injuries, from which it will take a week or two to recover.

Other Roads

According to the Wilmington (Del.) News the freight train men of the city, presumably those running on the Philadelphia, Baltimore & Washington, are now so busy and in such constant demand that when a trainman goes to a theatre he gives the box office the number of his seat, just as is done by physicians, so that when he is wanted he can be quickly reached. The theatre men find on their list more railroad men than physicians.

The eight "auditors" now collecting fares on trains of the Great Northern railway are so satisfactory that, it is said, about 50 more men will be put onto trains to perform this service. According to the Minneapolis Tribune the conductors will now be able to give their undivided attention to the handling of their trains; and the railroad company's circular is correctly quoted, the "auditors" will also be expected to give undivided attention to the work assigned to them, for they will "under no condition be permitted to occupy seats with lady passengers." The auditors are expected to assist the other train employees in making passengers comfortable.—Railway Gazette.

H. C. Barlow, executive director of the Chicago Commercial association, says: "We hear much about the greatness of the railroads, but does not the average railroad place a high estimate on its own importance? The annual value of the manufactures within the limits of what is known as commercial Chicago is almost equal to the entire gross freight earnings of all the railroads of the United States. A Southern railway agent was surprised a few days ago to find that the retail business done in Chicago by one merchant is larger than the entire business of Mr. Spencer's system."

At Altoona, Pa., a new order has been issued forbidding employees in the railroad shops to cross the tracks or to ride on engines or freight cars while going to and from work; and not only has the order been emphasized but watchmen have been stationed to detect and report violations of it. It appears that among the thousands of men employed in the Altoona shops there are a great many who have made free use of the extensive freight yards as thoroughfares, and that many serious accidents have occurred.

Science in Selecting Proper Foods

People Are Unhealthy, Because They Do Not Eat The Right Food.

In these days of adulterated foods and food products such a food as is known to be pure and wholesome is indeed welcome. We have heard of many breakfast foods and cereal products—some broadly advertised as whole products, others as cereals for every disease known to man. No doubt they are all good and possessed of some merit, but most of them are manufactured with some foreign sweetening agent to make them palatable. Among all the breakfast and cereal foods offered the public today, we believe we are warranted in saying that Malta-Vita is the only food that is simply and wholly pure grain product and nothing else, except a little salt. Malta-Vita is it comes to you from the factory is all of the wheat. It has been thoroughly cleaned, steamed to gelatinize the starch, then added to it is barley malt made from selected barley, this, acting upon the starch, turns it into maltose or malt sugar, pronounced by physicians and food experts the finest, purest, most healthful sweetening agent known. Then the grain of wheat is rolled out flat into a thin water flake and baked in the ovens. It comes to you fresh and pure and sweet—absolutely nothing but a grain product prepared in the cleanest and most wholesome way and turned into the most delicious whole wheat food that can be found. Malta-Vita is for sale by nearly all grocers. It costs but ten cents a package for the same big package for which you used to pay fifteen cents.

Tomorrow evening the lodge will install officers and the ceremonies will be followed by an oyster supper.

The commerce with the noncontiguous territory of the United States also makes a new high record for 1905, and will amount to about 130 million dollars in value, against a little less than 100 millions last year.

THE RURAL DELIVERY.

Carefully compiled estimates of the postoffice department indicate that within a few more years the rural free delivery will be costing the government $60,000,000 annually to maintain. At the present rate routes are being established, the system will be as perfect as it can be in five more years. At the present time there are about 32,000 routes in operation, covering about 700,000 square miles of country. There is about one million more miles of territory to be covered, and it will require about 20,000 carriers for the service that is to be established.

It is generally agreed by men who have studied every side of the matter, that the rural delivery will never be self-sustaining, and will cause serious drains upon the government exchequer. Some economists put forth the argument that the rural delivery will have the effects of thinning out the population of large cities, and by this alone justifies the heavy cost to the people at large. It is hard to understand by what system of reasoning this belief can be justified. The settlement of farming districts can never be dependent entirely upon a daily mail service. In fact it seems that the system will work directly opposite. Already the trade of thousands of country towns is decreasing, and this reduces the opportunity for employment of the people, and drives the unemployed to the large cities. There are few states in the union better supplied with rural routes than Iowa. Still the recent census of that state contradicts the rural population optimism. Instead of an increase in farm population, there has been a remarkable falling off. Not alone in the strictly rural districts, but in the rural towns have the inhabitants decreased, and the larger cities of the state show a gain, and in the total the state shows a great loss in population.

It is doubtful whether the system is in any way advantageous to the farmers at large. While it is convenient to have mail delivered daily at the farm house, does the business of the farmer justify the cost? Is it not more of a luxury than a necessity? Does it not result in isolation that would not prevail otherwise? It is when he visits the local town that the social qualities of the farmer receives development. He meets his neighbors; friendly intercourse makes lighter the drudgery of the week. The rural free delivery enables the farmer to remain at home. He writes a letter to the mail-order house when he wants supplies. The trade he formerly gave to his local merchant goes to the distant city. This is the influence of the rural delivery against the business advancement of the small towns. With the decrease of local mercantile trade, the life of the town is deadened. Growth is retarded; real estate values lowered; population decreased on account of lack of business to employ the people, and the home market for the farmer's produce destroyed. The system is a means of draining the surplus earnings of the people to the big cities. It helps along the unequal distribution of the earnings of the masses and helps in the upbuilding of greater trusts and combinations.

No one will deny the farmer the luxury of the free rural delivery system. But it has its elements of evil that perhaps will in time be eradicated. The fault lies with the rural population whom the service is intended to benefit. Like other good things it can be abused. The intelligent farmer will not allow the rural delivery to forget the interests he has in his home town. He will not contract the habit of sending his earnings away where they will be prevented from again circulating in his community. But close attention to farm work has to a great extent narrowed the views of many farmers. Let it be hoped that the free delivery will bring enlightenment to them, and be the means of educating them to the importance of building up their own communities instead of assisting trust and combination building in the big cities. The statistician who figures out that the rural free delivery will be the means of increasing urban and rural population, has another guess coming.

La Crosse Chronicle: Viola Allen has married a man 69 years of age and with him gets a breach of promise suit with 130 burning letters as exhibits.

Martyrdom Denied Pout.

Chicago Record-Herald: Senators Dewey and Platt were heartily welcomed on their reappearance in the senate. The only thing the senate really draws the line on is conviction by a jury.

They Guess Wrong.
New York Mail: Lots of people are poor today because they didn't know what was going to happen in 1905. Lots more will become poor because they think they know what will happen in 1906.

Jibe At Milwaukee Free Press.
Milwaukee News: Uncle Ike doesn't seem to be proud of his child, the organ. Yet, it is rather shabby for him to disown his offspring, seeing that it is the perfect image of its pa.

Who Is It Anyway?
Milwaukee Journal: A Connecticut paper says a Wisconsin editor is working as to how he is to get his shirt or over his wings, when he reaches Paradise. Is it the Hon. Isaac Stephenson or the Hon. Charles F. Pfister.

Would Be Out Of Politics.
Omaha Herald: Senator Merion of Waukesha has declared himself a candidate for the democratic nomination of governor. He says he wants to get out of politics, and that is about the easiest way to accomplish his purpose.

Sage Advice To Men.
Fond du Lac Bulletin: That young business man who had one mortgage on his home, is allowing his clerks to take care of the affairs at the store, and who is getting a second mortgage on his house to raise money to purchase an automobile because his wife can't live without one, is going to see the time when he will wish he had never had any parents.

'Twas Cullom's Stock In Trade.
Rockford Register Gazette: Secretary Taft is a great admirer of Speaker Cannon. He insists, too, that "Uncle Joe" looks like Abraham Lincoln. The secretary was at the capitol a few days ago and while walking through the speaker's lobby met Mr. Cannon. "Hello, there, Abe, how are you, Abe?" exclaimed the secretary. "Mr. Secretary," said the speaker in a low voice, "don't say that out loud; you'll break poor old 'Uncle Shelby's' heart; it's been his stock in trade for a few of these thirty years."

Assimilation Their Destiny.
Racine Journal: There is a lesson of deep significance taught in the consolidation of two German newspapers in Milwaukee to the effect that it does not take very long for those coming over to our shores, especially Scandinavian, German, Irish, English, Scotch and other immigrants of a high intellectual order, to become rapidly assimilated and eager to take up with the way of their adopted country. Of course there will always be a field for foreign journalism in this country, but it will not enlarge as the years pass by, rather decrease.

Cassie's Good Steady Job.
Superior Telegram: Cassie Chadwick has a position as wash-woman in the Ohio state prison, and many newspapers are drawing contrasts regarding her condition. However according to our idea she is in better condition than she was before she was arrested. A good, steady job of useful work is better than living in opulence over a mine of fraud and disgrace that is liable to blow up at any moment. The terrible suspense and mental strain of living a life of veneered fraud and crime liable to exposure and notorious disgrace at any time is much more dreadful than being a wash-woman even in a penitentiary.

London Another Bigelow?
Beloit Free Press: Recently Jack London, the novelist, made the sensational statement in an address at New York that women in Chicago earn only 90 cents a week at the tailoring trade, and now the Chicagoans are after him with sharp sticks, showing that such a statement is as full of fiction as his novels. The state factory inspector is among those who have taken a hand in refuting the statement, and he says that 3,433 places in Chicago where tailoring work is done by men, women and children are inspected, and it was found that the children under 16 years earned from $2.50 to $3.00 a week, while the women earned much more. None was found who earned so little as 90 cents a week. Evidently London is following in the footsteps of his illustrious fellow fictionist, Poulney Bigelow.

A Substitute.
"Are you going to get that automobile which the doctor ordered for your wife?" "Can't afford it, but we have almost the real thing. She puts on a pair of gasoline cleaned gloves, takes a long, long ride on the front seat of a trolley car, and walks back."

Pithy and Eloquent.
Here is the pithiest sermon ever preached: "Our ingress into life is naked and bare, our progress through life is trouble and care, our egress out of it we know not where, but doing well here we shall do well there; I could not tell more by preaching a year."—London Tit-Bits.

The Hunting Trip.
"I shall miss you while you are on your hunting trip, dear," murmured the young wife affectionately, "and I shall pray that the men you are going with will do the same."—Cleveland Leader.

Publishers Hire Prima Donnas.
In the course of a lawsuit in London a music publisher stated that even the greatest composers employ prima donnas to sing their new songs all over the country. Otherwise the songs would never get known at all.

Truly wonderfully—a little want ad.

OTHER CITIES OBSERVE

Planned For Tonight.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—Scotchmen throughout the world are celebrating the one hundred and forty-seventh anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns, their greatest poet. Few men have won such lasting fame and few are so near to the hearts of the people as Burns, whose immortal songs are sung and loved by the people today as they were a hundred and more years ago.

The Caledonian club, an organization composed of Scotch-Americans, living in this city, will follow its long established custom and celebrate the memory of Burns by a banquet this evening. Many prominent Scotch-Americans will be present at the banquet and several interesting addresses on Burns, his life and works, are on the program for the evening.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 25.—The Scotchmen of this city will celebrate the one hundred and forty-seventh anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns this evening by a number of entertainments and banquets.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 25.—The Trenton Caledonian club, which was recently organized, has arranged for a celebration in honor of Robert Burns' birthday. William Stewart, the president of the club, will act as toastmaster at the banquet. Several prominent speakers will deliver addresses.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 25.—Under the auspices of the Burns Anniversary association an entertainment in honor of the birthday anniversary of Robert Burns, the great Scotch poet, will be given here this evening. It will take the form of a banquet with an interesting program of addresses and musical numbers. The members of the organization will, on that occasion, appear in kilts, wearing the sporrans, dirks and skean dhus, the caps, plaids and brooches, which their fathers used to wear.

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 25.—The Scotch Thistle society, composed of Scotch-Americans living in this city, will, as customary, celebrate the anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns by a banquet at the Windsor hotel. An interesting program has been prepared.

The Calumet and Hecla bands will furnish the music.

Worcester, Mass., Jan. 25.—Following its custom in former years, the Clan Scot lodge of this city will hold a celebration this evening in honor of the one hundred and forty-seventh birthday anniversary of Robert Burns, the great Scotch poet. The lodge will be assisted by Thistle lodge, D. of S., and a large gathering is expected. The program includes a reception, a musical entertainment, several addresses, and Scotch dancing by expert dancers.

THE "SEE AMERICA FIRST" CONVENTION

Commercial Club of Salt Lake City
Guests of "Home and Coast Travel" Promoters.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Jan. 25.—The "See America First" convention, which convened here today in response to a call sent out by the Commercial club of this city, is the first one of its kind ever held in this country. If the plans of the promoters of the movement are realized, this convention will mean the first step toward diverting a large part of the traveling in this country toward the west and thus greatly benefiting this part of the country. About one hundred and fifty delegates representing every one of the western states and territories were in attendance, when the convention was opened and considerable enthusiasm was displayed by the delegates. Among the delegates are many prominent merchants and manufacturers of the various western states, who are greatly interested in the movement. The object of the movement is to attract the traveling public to this country to the west, which in the opinion of the friends of the movement, offers many highly attractive and interesting features. It is not yet decided by what means the convention will try to accomplish its ends, but it is probable that it will favor the starting of local and state booms throughout the west, the arranging of excursions to the various states and to particularly interesting points, and advertising of the important features of interest in each one of the western states. This state governments and the western railroads will be asked for their support of the movement, which would be of enormous benefit to the entire west.

OLD GUARD OF NEW YORK HOLDS BALL

Great Military Dancing Event in Madison Square Garden Tonight—Noted Guests.

New York, Jan. 25.—The Old Guard of New York, the most famous military organization in the country, will hold its annual ball in Madison Square Garden this evening, and it promises to be even more brilliant than any previous ball of that organization. The balls of the Old Guard have the reputation of being among the most brilliant social and military functions held in this country. This time, it is said, all previous records will be surpassed. The governors of New York, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Ohio have accepted invitations and are expected to attend, accompanied by their staffs in full uniform. General Fred D. Grant, rear Admiral Coghlan, Mayor McClellan, and many other distinguished persons will be present.

One of the most interesting features of the ball will be the military parade which will begin on the "stroke of midnight" and pass in review before the officers of the army and militia. Detachments of every regiment of the national guard, companies of the ancient and honorable artillery of the Albany burghesses corps, the Provost Light Infantry corps, the Frontier veteran association and national lancers of Boston, first and second companies of the governor's foot guard of Connecticut, the city troop of Philadelphia, a company of the first regiment of minute men of Washington, D. C., united train of artillery of Bristol, R. I., the Putnam phalanx of Connecticut, and the first and second corps of Massachusetts cadets will take part in the parade. The proceeds from the sale of boxes go to the building fund for a new armory.

By a vote of 93 to 15 against Watford, Racine county, decided to incorporate as a village at a special election held on Tuesday.

ATHLETICS.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Jan. 25.—If the University of Chicago succeeds in securing the proposed waterway on the Midway Plaisance a decade-old prayer of the University of Wisconsin will be answered. Wisconsin had maintained a crew department for more than ten years, annually sending crews to race in the intercollegiate regatta on the Hudson river at Poughkeepsie, receiving no money for expenses out of the large receipts of the races and making up by voluntary subscriptions and out of football profits the $5,000 a year loss resulting from the aquatic department. Perhaps not one badger student out of 100 ever sees the crews' race in the east, yet the students think so well of the oarsmen that they contribute generously to the expense fund. Of late years there has been dissatisfaction and the demand for the formation of a western rowing league among the universities has continually grown, but lack of water facilities has made the realization of this plan impossible, unless it be now in the possible acquisition of the Maroon school of a waterway on the Midway. This hope of the ultimate establishment of rowing as a western intercollegiate sport is stimulated by the practically assured possibility of sending a set of Wisconsin crews east, as the result of the decrease of football receipts owing to the revolution in the game wrought by the recent faculty conference in Chicago.

STATE NOTES.
Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hannahs of Kenosha, have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Charlotte, and Edward S. Jordan on Thursday, Feb. 1.

Arthur Behnke, one of the men seriously injured by the boiler explosion near Holcomb, is a son of Albert Behnke, a well-known citizen of Brillion. Behnke, although badly scalded, will recover.

Jacob Hetzel of West Bend, a member of the firm of Hetzel Bros., city draymen, committed suicide on Wednesday by hanging. He was to be married next Saturday, but feared he was going insane.

Mayor James Gorman of Kenosha is to have opposition for reelection, as announcement has been made of the candidacy of Ald. John Hegeman, a republican, a member of the common council for eight years.

ENJOYED HIMSELF.

After sitting in the dental chair for over an hour last Saturday one of our well-known business men got up, stretched himself, and said:

"Dr. Richards, I don't know how I could have spent a more enjoyable hour than I have with you today."

Just think of that.

After his tooth had been cut off, the nerve extracted, and a crown put on. Enjoyed himself.

That don't look like he had been hurt much, does it?

That's how people feel who employ Dr. Richards to do their dentistry.

Because he studies how NOT TO HURT his patients.

BURNS EVENING
FOR BURGLARS

DRY-GOODS STORE ON MILWAUKEE ST. ROBBED

OF $800 WORTH OF SILKS

Visitors Locked Doors Behind Them and Kept Key - Theft Not Discovered Until This Morning.

When John J. Boyes, who is in charge of the silk and dress goods department at T. P. Burns' store, lifted the cloth covers in the front part of the establishment this morning he discovered that someone had been there before him and carried away the larger portion of the costly silks. About the same time it developed that the side doors opening into the alley on the west which separates the building from the Kimball store were locked, but that the key, always left hanging from a cord on the inside, had disappeared. The next disclosure was concerned with a so-called "half window" nearest these doors. In a casual glance one would have discerned nothing wrong there, but closer inspection showed that it had been opened and closed again and that the lower section of the upper and outer sash which had been part of the lock and been held in place by the operation. The disorderly appearance of the snow on the sill and the marks of a pry or jimmy on the bottom of the lower frame told the rest of the story.

Fifty-Three Bolts Taken
Fifty-three bolts of silk, averaging from fifty to seventy yards apiece, had been carried away and quite late in the morning it was discovered that two boxes of plumes and an untrimmed hat, which had already been sold to some customer, had likewise been gathered in by the burglars. The silks, mostly black and among the best in the store, represented a value of from $800 to $900. Happily, just at this time the stock was low. The burglar insurance carried by Mr. Burns, will cover the loss.

Just a Single Clue.
Manager Simard remembers that a rather heavy-built, well-dressed and fine-looking woman spent some time at the silk counter on Saturday, but made no purchases, after being shown nearly the entire stock. She was a stranger and volunteered the information that she was from Appleton. That is the only possible clue as to the identity of the thieves.

Not Without Warning

There is no light in this alley which runs back to the Blodgett mill. Neither is any kept in the Burns store at night. City Marshal Appleby has long had this place listed as one of the most hazardous in the city and when, near the side doors, about three months ago, a good-sized jimmy was found under the "box" of waste-paper and rubbish, which is emptied every day, he urged the management to have bars put inside the windows. At the same time he cautioned the night men to be particularly watchful of this locality.

Sharp Surveillance Kept

Officers Fanning and Bear have followed instructions and have gone through this alley eight or ten times a night. The city marshal, himself, was through there at 1:30 this morning. There is a high partition just back of the show window which cuts off any view from the street of the section of the store where the silks are kept. The work was evidently done quickly and a confederate on the outside, no doubt, kept careful espionage on the movements of the officers. The thoughtful expedient of shutting the window and locking the door after the job had been completed showed that the invading party was composed of experts in the profession.

Little Learned at Depot

Very few passengers took the early morning trains and little baggage was handled. A satchel and trunk were checked to Mr. Clemens, Mich., and a trunk to Arlington Heights on the 6:43 North-Western passenger; three pieces of luggage belonging to the Jeffris family went to Florida on the 4:30; a trunk was taken to Chicago by a young man about 25 years of age on the 5:10 train; a telescope and a sample trunk went to Fond du Lac on the 6:08; and two ladies brought to the depot in a back-checked trunk to Kalamazoo on the eight o'clock train. Nearly all of the parties were known, either personally or by sight, by the baggage master and the piece of baggage taken to Fond du Lac was the only one that seemed to promise anything in the way of clues and that seemed a very unlikely one. Manager Simard looked over City Marshal Appleby's "rogue's gallery" at the station, but was unable to identify any of the women as the one from Appleton who visited the store Saturday.

MARRIED TOO SOON
AFTER HIS DIVORCE

Failed to Learn He Could Not Marry Within a Year from Date of Divorce Being Filed.

Through a failure to understand the Wisconsin divorce laws, which forbid re-marriage of either party within a year either within or without the state after the filing of the decree, D. D. Silver, until recently a resident of Janesville, has suffered considerable annoyance. Mr. Silver was granted a divorce by Judge Dunwiddie on December 14th last and without waiting for the year to expire or the decree to be filed, was married to a Minneapolis young woman on December 19. Upon learning of his violation of the Wisconsin law, Mr. Silver immediately left his second wife and she returned to her parents to wait the end of the required year. The final decree was filed with the clerk of court here a few days ago.

INTERIOR BLAZE IN A ST. PAUL CABOOSE

Still Alarm Summoned Fire Department Out at 5:45 O'clock This Morning.

At 5:45 o'clock this morning one hose car and the patrol wagon of the fire department were summoned by a still alarm to the local yards of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway company. Here a caboose, by number "76," was found afire. The blaze was confined to the interior and the flames were extinguished by the use of chemicals. Though the source is unknown it is supposed that the fire originated from embers falling onto the floor from the stove. The car was unoccupied.

ROCK RIVER JAMMED
FULL OF SOLID ICE

Startling Condition That Exists in the Upper Portion of the River Today.

For the first time in years an ice jam in the Rock river, above the railroad bridge and extending four miles upstream, threatens a flood and destruction of considerable property unless broken. The ice has come down the river in solid cakes and sunk each cake piling upon the one below until there is almost a solid jam, under water, for four miles. Not only is it a serious problem to adjacent property owners, but it also will make it difficult for the ice men to cut ice for the coming summer's supply, as the ice will not freeze in solid enough cakes to admit of the cutting. Mr. Henry Tall said this morning that it would be difficult to supply the ice trade with local ice next summer unless some change in the conditions came very shortly. Men who have examined the ice jam say that it will possibly flood the upper portion of the city adjacent to the river, but will not damage the dam or bridges.

THEY WERE MARRIED EVEN IF IT WAS TROUBLESOME

Mary Madru of Newark, Aged 17, and William A. Thompson, Aged 27, Wedded Today.

William A. Thompson of the Town of Avon and Miss Mary Madru of the town of Newark drove to Monroe yesterday afternoon with the intention of being married. They were refused a license to wed for two reasons: First, because the bride was but seventeen and did not have the consent of her parents, and second because the permit must be issued in the county in which the bride resides. That was disappointing and changed the young people's plans. Today they came to Janesville in company with the father of the bride-to-be, Peter Madru. The license was granted in the office of the county clerk, a special permit to wed immediately was granted by Judge Sale and the trio tied themselves to the office of Justice Charles Reeder. Here the marriage ceremony was performed by the obliging Judge and the happy couple went their way as one. The groom is twenty-seven years of age, ten years older than his wife, and is a farmer in Avon.

TUBERCULOSIS IS NOW INCREASING

STATE VETERINARIAN BUSY INSPECTING HERDS.

REPORT FOR THE PAST YEAR

Seven Hundred and Sixty-Nine Have Been Found To Be Afflicted with the Disease.

Forty-one cattle belonging to Frank Bros. herd of 70 in the town of Lima and sixteen cows and two calves belonging to Otto Berg's herd have been discovered to be afflicted with tuberculosis and condemned by State Veterinarian B. D. Roberts. Yesterday, after an examination of Louis Levenson's herd of 35, he condemned 23 head. The killing of one or more animals for beef and the discovery that they were affected led to the requests for examinations in several instances.

769 Have Been Condemned

"Since January, 1935, we have tested 2,676 head of cattle of which 769 have been condemned—making the ratio of diseased ones twenty per cent," said Dr. Roberts when interviewed this afternoon. "The herds examined were only such as the state had good reason to believe were afflicted with the disease. In a number of instances, however, where herds were inspected no traces of the disease were discovered."

Greater Care Needed
"I believe that the prevalence of the disease is due to the carelessness of people in buying and selling cattle from diseased herds, without insisting that the tuberculin test be applied in the first place. At auction sales it not infrequently happens that a whole diseased herd is sold under the hammer. We are investigating at the present time the question as to whether the residue from the milk, taken to the creameries, separated and returned to the calves and hogs, is responsible to any large degree for the spread. It is true that the disease is present in a noticeable degree among the cattle in certain sections where creameries are located and it is also true that it has become very prevalent recently among the hogs, particularly in localities where the cattle are afflicted."

To Compete For National Title In New York--E. W. Bassett a Candidate Whose Chances Are of the Best--Brokaw and Keene in Form.

The figure skating championship of America will soon be held in the St. Nicholas rink, New York, as heretofore.

The best of the country's figure skaters, Dr. A. G. Keene, E. W. Bassett and Irving Brokaw, and other experts have entered. Their best efforts are being devoted to the perfection of intricate figures.

Dr. Keene will represent the New York Athletic club, as he has done for years past. He has held the championship for seven years, excepting 1903. He works in the St. Nicholas rink every day on his plain moves, three loops and spins.

Last year a black haired youngster entered the championship competition, and all wondered that one without the supposedly requisite experience should have nerve enough to pit his skill against that of seasoned veterans. The boy was E. W. Bassett of the Wanderers' Skating club. There were decision and grace in every move, and he beat out Irving Brokaw, the winner of many matches at home and abroad, who had always been second to Keene since 1898 in the national championships.

Bassett gives promise of being the future champion. He has youth, poise, grace and skill. Every day he practices single, double and triple loops, toe loops and heel and toe spins.

Barie Reynolds ranks first among the professionals. His "dances," which include every known step, are all done just over the half of the foot. As a result they do not tire the skater in the least.

Mrs. Bell Butler, multi-head and shoulders over the best of the women professionals. She spent last winter in the rink at New Orleans, but will come up and give exhibitions in New York this year.

This year's national championships will be held in New York city, as the rule is that the match be held in the city in which the title holder resides. A diamond trophy will be given the winner.

STEAM YACHTS RACE AGAIN.

W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., of Tarrytown and Howard Gould's Niagara IV.

William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., will race his steam yacht Tarrytown against Howard Gould's Niagara IV. The contest will take place over a forty-mile course on Long Island sound next summer, probably off Port Jefferson, N. Y.

These two steam yachts have met twice before, and each has won a race. The first time they met was in 1904, and the little white Niagara, with nothing but a "smokestack" and a small bridge above her long, narrow hull, won by three minutes and fifty seconds over a thirty-nine mile course. Last September they raced again over forty miles of water off Port Jefferson, and the Tarrytown turned the tables on her rival. The intrepid use of hand coal in the Niagara's boilers beat her, because not until the race was half over could sufficient steam be got up.

The Tarrytown, a picture of a slate colored torpedo boat, came home racing through the water an easy winner by two minutes and fifty-nine seconds. On board the racers were their owners, who enjoy more than any one else the friendly rivalry. Vanderbilt took the Niagara IV. cup that the two yachts raced for and a $5,000 check, with which Gould backed his boat's chances. Each owner will wager $15,000 on the next race.

Erratic Herrera.

Mexican Vanquisher of Young Corbett Is an "In and Out."

The Mexican fighter Aurora Borealis Herrera, as they call him in Frisco, is once again on top. His quick win over Young Corbett has brought that name to the pinnacle of the heap for about the fifth time, but still he looks as good as ever.

Five years ago Herrera was looked upon as a wonder. He had knocked out a bunch of boys, but went back after his defeat by McGovern. He plugged away after that, however, meeting "dubs" here and there, and finally got up again only to be outpointed by Abe Attell and put back again. Once again he started off on his great career and put them away so fast that sports still thought him a wonder. Then Jack Cordell, a Frisco boy, beat him.

Herrera plugged on, never thinking himself all in, and put out Kid Broad and Yunker and won for himself a chance at Battling Nelson. He lost this fight after a hard go, and it was back to the baby class again. On and on he battled, meeting the best in the east and middle west, but not making much headway until he knocked out Corbett recently.

He has been on top, and at the bottom more than any fighter in the world and is just as dangerous now as he has been at any time in his life.

In the ring Herrera is as lazy as the sleepy Spaniard, sunning himself in front of his little casa. He is Young Corbett over and over again. He stands upright, seldom crouching, but his black eye is ever on the alert for an opening. This "button" eye of his has picked out bunches of jaws that other eyes passed up. The other fellow never knows just how fast this Mexican can get on one such, thinking him as slow with the punch as he is with the stride, often makes the mistake that the count only can make him remember.

That right hand punch is the quickest thing you ever saw in your life. He throws his body with the punch, and there is such force behind it that Herrera often goes out of the ring entirely when he misses his mark. He just crawls around, sniffling as the other fellow belts him, and then suddenly whips over the right, and if it connects, curtail. If not, he still has more and is as patient as an old woman too.

You never can tell, though, just what sort of a fight he will put up. Often the worst move in the world will light him a draw, and then the next time he will knock out a champion. He is an in and out for fair. His next fight might be an awful slump and he might fight like a demon. He is much like the weather—make a good bet on him, and he will lose; leave your umbrella home, and it will rain.

That is Herrera.

BRUSH TALKS BASEBALL.

President of New York Nationals Does Not Fear Consolidation.

President John T. Brush of the National league team in New York, the winners of the world's championship in the series with the Philadelphia Athletics, does not fear the consolidation of the National and American leagues. The amalgamation of the two leagues is a much talked of move in baseball just at present, and Brush has this to say:

"The consolidation idea has been discussed, and some seem to want it, and there are some who probably do not want it. Always in baseball those who lose hope for a change, and their hopes lie in a change. Those who are successful generally are willing to leave well enough alone. As far as I know the talk of consolidation emanated from the disgruntled ones of both leagues."

"How do you stand on the matter of consolidation?" Mr. Brush was asked. "It doesn't make much difference to me. The New York National league club has been very successful, and I don't know whether I would be more so with one league of eight clubs or under the present conditions. It won't be an easy matter to bring about a consolidation because of the big interests at stake, but I haven't given any particular attention to it because I am not specially interested at this time. When it comes down to a point of final determination then I will have something to say."

Jimmy Sheppard, the Brooklyn outfielder, intimates that he will play independent ball rather than go to Chicago. This looks like a bid for high salary, and it's a good guess that Jimmy will get it and go to Chicago.

AN EXPENSIVE OMISSION.

Dash Left Out of a Message Costs Telegraph Company $2,200.

This is what the operator sent:— This is what he should have sent:— And it cost $2,200.

A dash in a telegraph instrument requiring a fraction of a second in sending, but which an operator failed to put in, will cost the Postal Telegraph company $2,200 if a verdict handed down by a jury in the supreme court of Brooklyn the other day goes into effect, says the New York American.

The plaintiff was E. S. Halstead & Co., the Manhattan bag manufacturing company of Chicago the operator made a dash and four dots instead of three dots dash and a dot which made what was intended to be 8.80 and 3.80 or five points difference. At least that is what Halstead & Co. claim, and the jury agreed with them.

By reason of the error Halstead & Co. lost $2,200 in making a contract for a lot of bags with Armour & Co., and they immediately brought suit to compel the telegraph company to make good the loss.

Justice Maddox took the verdict under advisement on a motion made by the defendant company to have it set aside.

COWBOY KINDERGARTEN.

Oklahoma Scheme to Give Eastern Boys a Taste of Ranch Life.

J. C. Miller, manager of the "101" ranch in Oklahoma, says that they are making great preparation to handle the continuous performance "Kindergarten" next summer for the benefit of the eastern youths who want to know what life on a big ranch is really like. According to the present plans they expect to take care of about 400 of them in four months' time, 100 a month, says a Guthrie (Okla.) special dispatch to the Chicago Inter Ocean.

"We will furnish them a good mount and a blanket," said Mr. Miller, "and put them out in camps along the river some place. Let them sleep outdoors, eat out of the tail end of a wagon and live the regular cowboy life, but of course without much of the work of it. We'll send some of the cowboys that are pretty good fellows—good story tellers and all that—over to take care of them and have a cattle roundup once in awhile for their benefit."

Greatest Irrigation Scheme.

The Canadian Pacific railway has in hand the greatest irrigation scheme in the world, says the Atlanta correspondent of the New York Tribune. By the end of the next three years 1,500,000 acres of land in the vicinity of Calgary, Alberta, hitherto arid, will be divided into 20,000 farms, watered from Bow river. This irrigation plan when completed will be 60 per cent larger than the next largest in the American continent, which is in the Pecos valley, Ariz. Already 110,000 acres of irrigated lands are ready for the market. The water utilized in this vast scheme will take two-thirds of the supply of the Bow river at low water. The superintendent of the work states that when it was first started there were practically no settlers in that particular section, but since then the flow of immigration, which has included many Americans, has been exceedingly rapid, and a good class of people are taking up their homes along the artificial canals. It is estimated that 100,000 persons will be sustained on this land, which until a few years ago was regarded as being little better than useless.

Dolly Madison's Trunk Rescued.

In the treasure room of the White House is an old trunk that belonged to Dolly Madison. This trunk had been buried from attic to basement until Mrs. Roosevelt discovered its historic worth. She had the relic renovated, and now it is one of the receptacles of the White House silver, says a correspondent of the New York Press. The old trunk held the wardrobe of the beautiful Virginia girl, and on the side it bears the words, "Miss Dorothy Madison, care of James Madison, Esq." Just how old fashioned it is may be gleaned from the fact that it is not covered with a smooth leather, but with a reddish cow skin, with the fuzzy hair showing. The trunk is in remarkably fine condition, considering the hard knocks it has undergone. It was in the White House at the fire and bears signs of scorching in several places.

Pike's Peak Centennial.

Old Pike's peak, the towering master of the Rocky mountains, was discovered a hundred years ago by the noted explorer, Zebulon Pike. The centennial anniversary of the mountain which has done so much to make Colorado famous will be celebrated with much pomp and ceremony from Sept. 10 to 15, 1906, says the Colorado Springs Dispatch. Preparations for the celebration are already under way. The Pike's Peak association, with headquarters at Colorado Springs, will conduct the celebration. While the date is yet remote, the association has outlined a unique and elaborate programme, part of which will be carried out on the summit of the peak. Urgent invitation has been extended to President Roosevelt and his cabinet to be present.

HOUSE REBELS BADLY BEATEN

OLD "UNCLE JOE" HOLDS REINS

Coalition Forces Are Defeated by Clever Work on Part of the Organization, Weak-Kneed Members Being Driven into the Party Fold.

Washington, Jan. 25.—No new declaration of independence was issued by the "insurgents" of the House of Representatives Wednesday.

The rule forbidding amendments to the statehood bill, against which they made their stand, went through. It was adopted by a vote of 192 to 165, all democrats voting against it together with 43 "insurgents." The 57 who had picked the balls of their thumbs and signed the roll of revolution with their blood, sloughed off by 14. The 15 others who would not sign, but would vote right, never did appear.

It was a sad, sad affair. The militant majority of the house stood up boldly, even bravely, and consented to be "gagged." They acted as if they liked the idea. The "stalwart" juggernaut rolled over the "insurgents" without a jar. It never slipped a cog. And when it was all over Uncle Joe Cannon beamed on the house with the bland and satisfied smile of the tiger who swallowed the young lady of the Niger, and said: "Boys, you know this is a government by party, and the will of the majority must and shall prevail."

Screws Pinch Ranks.

Uncle Joe picked them off, pulled them off, clubbed them off. They had enough when the movement first began, but the pressure was put on the vise was twisted, the whip was applied, and where yesterday an "insurgent" was a factor, to-day he is a "dub." And he knows it. Once more history has repeated itself; once more the organization has taken the meal and left the kickers holding the sack.

The "insurgent" leaders claim that they were beaten, because their followers were taken into camp by the opposition and for the reason that the organization did not have as many absentees as they figured on.

J. Adam Bade followed Mr. Payne of New York in the debate. "I want to say to the gentleman from New York," Mr. Bade said, "that if the Democratic party gets into power again it will not be because of the providence of God, but because of the mistakes of the leaders of the Republican party in this house. The gentleman speaks of the senators from New York. Most people are trying to forget them."

This was received with great applause by the galleries and by the membership of the house.

Insurgent Beds Is Rebuked.

The speaker was compelled repeatedly to rap for order and finally cautioned Mr. Bade about referring to the senate.

Representative Tawney, chairman of the committee on appropriations, and a former notorious insurgent, ate crow and made a speech in which he told of bowing to the will of the party.

The debate on the rule, which lasted for one and one-half hours, was replete with clever repartee and stinging rebukes from the chair. Mr. Dalzell presented the rule accepting the bill without amendment and putting it on final passage which had just been agreed upon by the rules committee.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Representative Foster of Vermont introduced a bill modifying the provisions of the Chinese exclusion act so that merchants, students and other classes entitled to enter the United States may do so without being submitted to the alleged indignities complained of by the Chinese government. The bill provides that after Chinese have been admitted to the United States they are entitled to a trial before they can be expelled by immigration officers.

The Adventurers

By H. B. MARRIOTT WATSON

COPYRIGHT, 1898, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

But these speculations were scattered at the approach of voices and a noise of oars in the water, which here ran deep and wide, a mile from its junction with the Ray. We listened with increased excitement, but as yet nothing was visible in the darkness. The boat seemed to draw up at the foot of the path below us, and there was the noise of two people landing.

NEVER

At Sercombe's feet was a prostrate figure, to make out what this might be I heard the approaching feet of the others. Then somewhere out of the night these words floated to us: "Captain Sercombe, I arrest you in the name of the queen."

There was a violent exclamation and the noise of a struggle and afterward a short cry and a horrid crash. Sheppard and I leaped to our feet and reached the path, where ten paces from the water stood Sercombe, and at his feet a prostrate figure.

"What is this?" I said anxiously. "Oh, you there, gentlemen?" said Sercombe, puffing. "This knife would have ruined our whole venture. But I reckon I've given him his stomach full."

"Yes, you have," I said bitterly, bending over the man. "He's about done for."

"Pooh," said Sercombe. "Only struck his head on a log. He's all right. Don't waste time over such swine." And he made for the boat, where I could perceive Montgomery.

I stopped him. "Understand this, Captain Sercombe," I said. "I am not here to break innocent heads or to injure honest lives, and if, as you say and I hope, this poor man is not dead, I will have him taken where he can be cared for."

Sercombe laughed harshly. "You are so infernally particular, Mr. Greatorex. But have your way."

"Very well," said I, "then I will take him over to the house yonder."

We carried the unfortunate man aboard the boat and pushed her off, Montgomery pushing to the jetty. There we landed the body. Suddenly Sercombe stopped.

"This is my affair," he said, "not yours. You won't be able to show your faces after this if you're mixed up in it. Besides, I may get definite particulars as to Hood if I go up."

He shouldered the unconscious form of the policeman as he spoke and departed, staggering under his burden. In a little he came back.

"It's all right," he said easily. "I told the farmer that it was a friend of mine who had met with an accident, and he has promised to look after him till I return. I am to call in an hour's time." He laughed. "And I've found out that Hood left half an hour ago, having borrowed the old gentleman's boat. There's some good in charity after all." And once more he laughed.

At the word Montgomery and Sheppard bent to the oars, and the nose of the boat shot downstream.

CHAPTER XXII.
"ND now," said I to Montgomery, "please explain. I think we have none of us contemplated a boating expedition. Where are we going?"

"Hood's got on before us, you know," he explained eagerly. "Captain Sercombe and I got away safely and reached this ferry twenty minutes before you, but the boat had gone."

"You mean Hood's boat?" I asked. "That's it," Sercombe broke in. "I reckoned we might nab Hood in the act, but we came too late by ten minutes. I recognized the place from his description. For the matter of that, it's easy to find, but there was no boat. That meant we must carry the expedition a stage farther, or we could drop on him. Presently Montgomery and I happened upon this tub a bit lower down. She's no great shakes, but she'll do to come up with him."

"And when we do?" said Sheppard. "I don't want to put too fine a point on it, sir," said Sercombe, "but it means cutting out, and if we are not prepared for cutting out, why, we had best turn the nose of the boat upstream again."

There was silence after this, but Sheppard and Montgomery applied their oars, if anything, a trifle more smartly.

stronger and imperious. It sounded of Chile and Peru. We ceased rowing. "What do you hear?" he inquired. "Nothing," came from Montgomery. "EH trust your ears, lad," said Sercombe. "Drive on."

The river opened wider, and the banks fell away on either side, sloping softly up to great black heights, and now a current from the sea came humming over the river bar and met us, striking the tub's bow with a dull splash. She swung and twisted, groaning in her sides.

"That's the estuary," said Montgomery. Sercombe leaned forward. "And we've not caught 'em," he said musingly. "Hood must have had a notion. Well, you see, he was bound to push on."

Our changes had taken place with punctuality, and now I lay across the bows and had my ear to the channel. The wind came up, and blew gently about my face. "Good!" sighed Sercombe, "that's refreshing. I thought I should stifle."

Sheppard, who was a yachtsman, cast a glance over his shoulders at the black horizon, but he said nothing. The current throbbed under the belly of the boat, and she rose and fell upon the waves.

"I suppose, we're out now?" asked Sercombe. "Darkness environed us, and I could see nothing forward or upon the left. A gloomy mass of shadow lay upon the right hand."

"We're hugging the right bank," I said. "I think we're in the estuary. I can see nothing."

"Well, keep her in close," said Sercombe, jerking his rudder. "That wind's coming up a bit."

A raw sailed out of the night and played upon us sharply. With that current drawing below her and under the stress of the gust she reeled and hung. Then she began slowly to creep along the water. Sercombe jammed the boat close to the shore. Then out of the abyssal darkness the wind brought a new sound to my ears.

"I turned to the others. 'They're in front,' I murmured.

"What's that?" called Sercombe from the stern.

"I spoke louder."

"Give me the sculls," said Sheppard. "Confound your hulking form, man! She'll fill if we give her the lap of honor in a chance. Keep under the lee of the shore, and we'll run her along."

"Go double, boys," urged Sercombe. They bent to their work with zest, and the boat spun along in a full of the wind. The sound of oars, slipping in water grew clearer.

Sheppard dropped his scull. "It's all right," he declared. "We can catch them. I've no doubt of that. Let's think. What are we going to do?"

"Why, catch 'em!" cried Montgomery. "We must strike somewhere and some time," said I. "The question is, shall we do it now?"

Sercombe sat considering, and I think we all unconsciously were awaiting his decision. He pulled the rudder strings suddenly with resolution.

"We'll get a bit nearer anyhow," he remarked, "and the wind will keep our news from them. But I fancy this has got to be settled on terra firma."

"I agree with you," I assented. "Pull on, then," he replied and himself prepared for action.

As Sheppard and Montgomery dipped their oars, a swell of the tide struck her on the broadside, whither she had fallen away. Simultaneously a capful of wind darted upon us. The tub rolled over and kicked till the gunwale lay under the water. We flung ourselves to the farther side, and she righted, the sea pouring in a cataract across her bows. Her nose sank deep in the trough, and I felt the boards slant away from me, toward the stern.

"She's sinking," said Montgomery. "Give way! Give way!" called Sheppard sharply. "Put her head up!" And the two drove the sculls through the masses of foaming water. The danger took a jump forward, broadside on to the water, and under the brisk strokes of the rowers, leaped a second time. Then her bows went down, and rolling her head to one side, like a wounded porpoise, she sank slowly, with a gurgling and a clucking of water.

POLICE PURSUE BLACK HAND MEN

Society Is Held Responsible for Twenty-one Deaths in Three Years.

ADVISE MEMBERS TO MURDER

Alleged Anarchists Gather in Saloon and Listen to Fiery Speeches by Leaders, After Making Prisoner of the Proprietor.

Monongahela, Pa., Jan. 25.—Warrants for the arrest of 135 anarchists were issued Wednesday. It is alleged that the 135 men named in the warrants are directly concerned in the plot to assassinate Gov. Pennypacker of Pennsylvania. Gov. Patterson of Ohio and other prominent men.

It is declared that the anarchist band, or the Italian "Black Hand" society, as it is known here, is responsible for twenty-one murders committed in this vicinity within the last three years.

Chief of Police Logan, with a large posse, is scouring the lonely hills back of the Monongahela river and dragging the skulkers from their hiding places.

Assistant District Attorney C. L. V. Acheson has secured evidence that the anarchistic society has practically honeycombed the county. Letters and papers secured indicate that the body has representatives in nearly every mining and mill section of the county, and that the organization is a desperate one. In addition to the Italians at Patterson, N. J., the headquarters of the organization, other gangs have been discovered in other sections.

Show Bold Front. The anarchists held a meeting at Courtney, a suburb, Wednesday afternoon. The meeting, evidently a pre-arranged one, was held about 3 o'clock. The members of the organization gathered quietly until there were more than a half hundred in John Eckert's saloon. The doors were shut and barred and Eckert was held a prisoner in order that he could not notify the officers.

Vincenzo Valdi and Pietro Giuseppe, leaders of the band, are said to have made fiery addresses in which they urged their countrymen to carry out their prearranged plot of assassination and not to be intimidated by officers. They advised the Italians, it is reported, to use every means possible to overthrow the government. "Use bloodshed if necessary," said Valdi, and Giuseppe reiterated his advice.

The meeting lasted until about 5 o'clock, the Italians then dispersing. The officers, during the course of the meeting, it was too late to apprehend any of the leaders.

Leader of Band in Jail. The arrest of John Spada, reputed chief of the "reds" in the Monongahela valley, led to the discovery of many details of the organization. Spada's house was filled with anarchistic literature, and on the wall hung an allegorical picture of Bresci, the assassin of King Humbert of Italy. In addition were found raffle tickets and list of purchasers, the proceeds being used for the anarchistic propaganda. Chief of Police Logan says every name on the list is that of an anarchist or a member of the "black hand."

DRUG CLERK EXPOSED. A Policeman Says This One Should Be Looked After. Mr. Patrick H. Crawford, police officer of Winchester, Mass., writes as follows: "The clerk at a drug store in Boston tries to sell something else when I call for Father John's Medicine, and he ought to be looked after. I have used your medicine in my family with good results."

What Mr. Crawford tells above is of daily occurrence, and his desire to warn others against being pressed into taking an unreliable preparation that the druggist claims to make himself is commendable.

Because there is more profit in these mixtures, drug clerks are paid according to their ability to force them upon customers. They generally contain nerve-deadening and poisonous drugs and acids, which are dangerous.

If a druggist tries to substitute a worthless preparation when you call for Father John's Medicine, remember that what he has done for others, it will do for you, and that the money is refunded in any case where it does not do all that is claimed for it. It builds up the system; makes strength, and is the best remedy ever prescribed for consumption, chronic bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles.

THE MAN ON THE BOX

By HAROLD MacGRATH
Author of "The Grey Cloak," "The Puppet Crown."

Is a Washington story that will appeal strongly to all American readers, for it is typically an American story in which the only villain is a Russian government spy, and he plays the part to perfection.

The Man on the Box

is a young army officer whose vein of humor leads him into difficulties which afford amusement for others at his expense.

THE GOOD-NATURED GIRL.

Why is it that girls don't like to be called "good-natured"?

I have an idea that they think "good-natured" means lack of will power, or a foolish willingness to be any one's tool or slave.

One girl explained it to me in the following words:

"It's just about the last thing you can say about a girl," she said. "If you can't think of anything else nice to say about her you call her 'good-natured'."
